

[27th-AUGUST “LEAK”] Kanye West “Donda” Album – Download or Listen FREE #Before Release

The album is scheduled to arrive the following day (27 August), according to a listing on Apple Music.

The latest take on the record is even more star-studded than the first, with The LOX, The Weeknd, and Kid Cudi filling out a roster of collaborators that already included Lil Baby, Travis Scott, Roddy Ricch, and Jay-Z. The production tweaks are a bit subtler but still notable, as West and his cadre of collaborators have revamped some of the instrumentation. (Apparently, his longtime co-producer Mike Dean is even showing West what fans in forums are saying about the record so they can continue making adjustments).

Title: Donda Album

A source told PEOPLE earlier this month that Kardashian is making an effort to assure that her ex sees their children, but that the couple remains separated.

"Two lessons that he passed along to his children," West's mother says on the track. "The first is that no matter what, you never abandon your family. The second was that no matter what, you love unconditionally."

Kanye West's manager confirms 'DONDA' will be released after Chicago listening event

The album heavily features his mother, Donda West

5.4 million viewers on Apple Music watched the event, eclipsing the previous record of 3.3 million people who tuned in for the first Atlanta 'DONDA' event.

The track began with the voice of West's late mother Donda — whom the album is named after — offering words of advice about love and marriage (She died in 2007 at the age of 58).

Another asked if there's a chance that West could delay the album again, but Thiam said he will "100%" release 'DONDA'.

Lil Yachty, who features on the album, took to Twitter to respond to fans sharing the latest imagery, saying, "this not the album cover though." As of now, the Apple Music pre-order is not giving us any clues, as the image is still just a black square.

"It's very important to her that the kids spend as much time as possible with Kanye," the source said of West, who's reportedly been living at Mercedes-Benz stadium in Atlanta while finishing the album.

A new release date was announced as 6 August, but again the album failed to materialise on that date.

The rapper and producer's much-anticipated tenth studio album has already been previewed during two listening events at the Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta, though the record is still yet to be released.

Billboard reports that Balenciaga creative director Demna Gvasalia will serve as the Chicago listening event's creative director, while West's personal videographer, Nico Ballesteros, will be filming the live event.
